ADVISORY ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed on February 21, 2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In response to applicant's argument that, "the examiner's conclusion that the web pages of Oosterholt are equivalent to a past-referred to file or past-referred to data of the instant claims is unsupported by the claims, when read in light of the specification," examiner respectfully disagrees and maintains that Oosterholt meets the limitations as claimed. Examiner reiterates that Oosterholt teaches the user may select a bookmark from a list of earlier defined bookmarks, which causes a retrieval means to retrieve a webpage referenced by the selected bookmark and the retrieval means may download the requested page from a remote server or if the page is already available locally, retrieve it from an internal storage medium (see paragraph 0018, lines 10-17 and Fig. 1; shows a personal computer 101 connected to a remote internet server 102). Thus it is clear from the teachings of Oosterholt that the web pages which is equivalent to a pastreferred to file or data, can be referenced whether the personal computer is communicating over an external network [i.e. with the remote server] or while the personal computer is not communicating over an external network, since Oosterholt teaches "the retrieval means may download the requested page from a remote server or if the page is already available locally, retrieve it from an internal storage medium."

In response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies

(i.e., a past-referred to file is identified by a URL address) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26
